

Company unveils revolutionary product

Herald Sun 7-4-2004

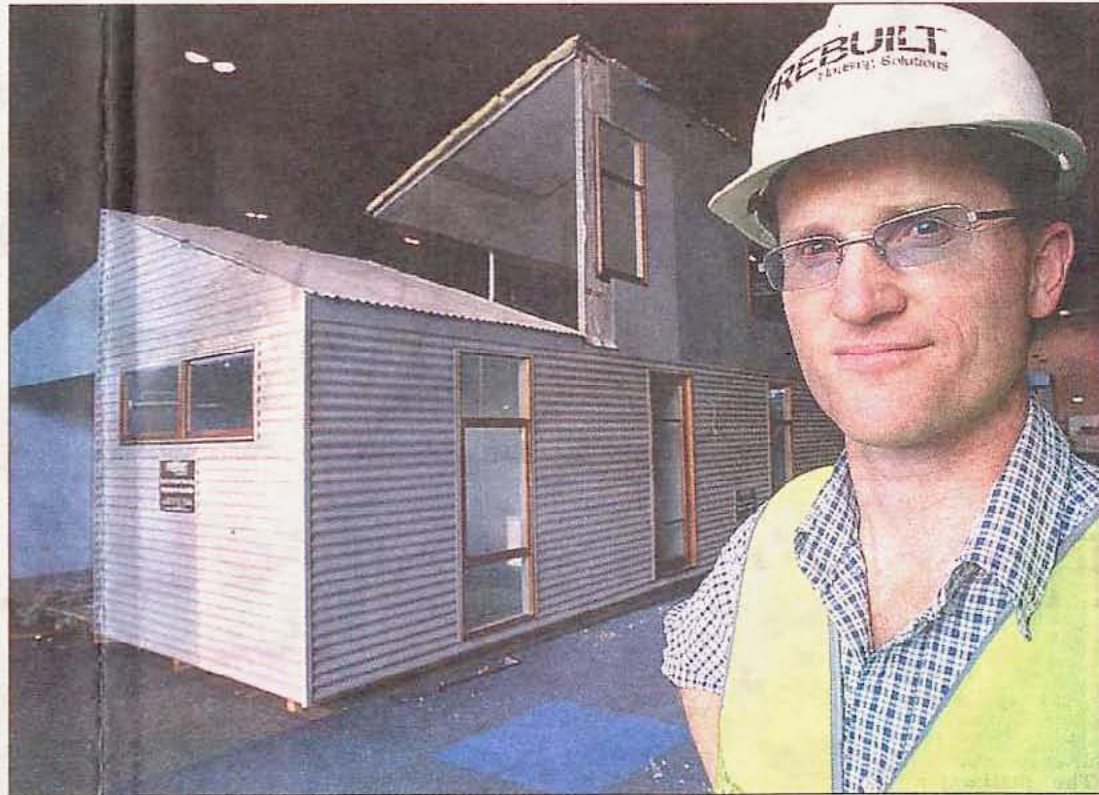

Home and away: Prebuilt Housing Solutions' revolutionary home can be folded up and delivered on the back of a truck.

Home initiative unfolds

Kitted out: the special foldaway house takes shape.

Pack drill: Prebuilt Housing Solutions managing director Rob Colquhoun. Pictures: MIKE KEATING

PLENTY of people have packed up home and moved house, but none probably quite like this.

This two-storey home quite literally folds up, and so it was that it arrived at the Melbourne Exhibition Centre this week.

The revolutionary home was lifted by crane from the back of a truck and carefully positioned in place for the HIA Home Ideas Show.

It was then unfolded, revealing three bedrooms, an ensuite, kitchen, living area and bathroom across two storeys.

The home, the first of its kind in Australia, is the work of Melbourne company Prebuilt Housing Solutions, and is a feature of the home show from this Saturday until April 18.

INSIDE TODAY'S
Herald Sun